

Husband re-married, in-laws ‘beat’ her up: Big allegations after pan masala baron's daughter-in-law dies by suicide

New Delhi, Agency: The brother of the 38-year-old woman who died by suicide in Delhi's Vasant Vihar on Thursday accused the deceased's in-laws of "torture" and "harassment."

The woman, who was the daughter-in-law of the owner of Kamla Pasand pan masala company, was found dead by her husband in the dressing room inside her bedroom at their house in southwest Delhi.

A diary was recovered from her room, in which an entry mentioned "relationship issues."

Following her death, her brother on Wednesday said her husband "used to harass her", while claiming that her family had recently brought her back home. "They used to beat her," the brother said about the deceased's husband and her mother-in-law.

"We recently learned that he had illegally married someone else. We brought our sister back to Kolkata, but her in-laws came to take her home," her brother alleged. He further said that the in-laws had promised to take care of her, but had continued to "torture" her after she returned.

"She returned only because they said they would fix things, but her husband and mother-in-law continued to torture her," he said, while also alleging that her husband had several "affairs". The brother claimed that the deceased's husband had re-married and has an "illegal child". "They (in-laws) got him divorced from there, he has an illegal child in Mumbai," the brother alleged.

However, the businessman's family lawyer Rajender Singh said the claims were "baseless and false." "Her mother has been with us since yesterday. Both families are grieving, and everyone wants her to be cremated with dignity. There is no note or complaint against anyone," Singh said.

Deceased woman was alone at house

At the time of the incident, the deceased woman was alone at her house. The woman lived with her husband and two children.

According to the police, her husband had left the residence in the morning to go to gym and carry out other errands, and the children left for school later, leaving the woman alone at the house.

The deceased's husband, after returning from the gym, saw her body in the dressing room of their bedroom. She was then rushed to the hospital, but was declared brought dead.

Deputy commissioner of police (southwest) Amit Goel said her body was then shifted to the Safdarjung Hospital mortuary, and an autopsy conducted. A crime team inspected the spot and recorded statements of the members of the family, Goel added.

Onlookers watch as Rajasthan woman rescues couple, baby from pond after car crash

Rajasthan, Agency: Surta Parmar, 38, was busy with her chores at her home at Dharti Mata village in Rajasthan's Dungarpur district when a thud and a commotion disrupted her daily routine on Tuesday. When she rushed out to see what the commotion was about, she was shocked. People had gathered near a pond, where a car had fallen, but were doing nothing to rescue its occupants.

Parmar took matters into her own hands as some onlookers filmed the car in the pond. She rescued a couple and their 11-month-old son from the car and helped rush them to a hospital that saved their lives.

The couple, Dharmesh Yadav and Shilpa, and their son, Drish, were on their way to Banswara from Dungarpur for a wedding when their car hit a divider, lost control, and plunged into the pond about 10 feet down, around 200 metres from Parmar's home.

Parmar said when she came out of her house, she realised it was a horrible accident. "Shilpa and Dharmesh Yadav had fainted...I could hear the baby crying," said Parmar.

Parmar waded into the water while her 15-year-old daughter, Ayushi, followed with ropes. She said the car was locked and the glasses were rolled up. She had to break the glass with a rod. Parmar said she first rescued Drish before dragging Dharmesh Yadav and Shilpa, stuck in the back seat, out of the car.

Parmar also found a pile of enumeration forms that Yadav, a Block Level Officer, was carrying in the car after a survey under the Special Intensive Review of the

MLA Manoj Yadav arrived in his constituency after being elected for the second consecutive time. Workers welcomed him

Banka: After being elected for the second consecutive time in the assembly elections with the highest number of votes among the five assembly constituencies in Banka district, JDU MLA Manoj Yadav arrived in Bhairavganj in Chandan block of his Belhar assembly constituency, where workers received a grand civic reception upon his arrival. Addressing the workers, MLA Manoj Yadav said, "I wholeheartedly welcome the people of Belhar for the immense trust they have placed in me." He said, "The way I worked in the constituency for the past five years has given me their overwhelming blessings." He added, "Impressed by the development work of the NDA government in Bihar, the people of Bihar have re-elected Nitish Kumar, the popular Chief Minister of Bihar." He also thanked the people of Bihar for re-electing Nitish Kumar, the Chief Minister of Bihar. He said, "In the coming five years, a new chapter of development will be written in Bihar." He said, "The people of Belhar have rejected the financial strength of the opposition candidates contesting in the Belhar assembly constituency, and have supported the welfare schemes of the NDA government." Seeing the spirit of good governance of Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar and my 5 years of development work, they gave me such huge public support. On this occasion, JDU block president Deepak Kumar Bharti, Arvind Pandey, Rajat Sinha, Tarini Yadav, Shibu Mandal, Hemraj Yadav, Pawan Yadav, Ashrafi Yadav, Umesh Yadav, Sujit Ramani, Tipan Paswan, Ritesh Kumar alias Rinku Mandal etc. were present.

Kolkata sex workers to get special EC camp to tackle SIR exclusion fears Kolkata, Agency: Caught in rising fear and uncertainty over the ongoing SIR of electoral rolls, sex workers in Kolkata's Sonagachi area are likely to get a special assistance camp, as the Election Commission prepares to address their unique documentation challenges.

A senior official in the Chief Electoral Officer's (CEO) office told PTI that the commission has taken note of the concerns after multiple organisations pointed out that many sex workers at Asia's largest red light district are unable to trace records from 2002, a mandatory requirement under the SIR process. He said several organisations have revealed gaps, particularly for women who never lived with their parents, were abandoned, or have been unable to maintain family links.

We have received reports that the sex workers of these areas are filling up the forms. In case they need any hand-holding we would extend our support. We came to know that many of them couldn't find any linkage to the 2002 voter lists," the official said on Wednesday.

26 lakh voter's names in Bengal electoral roll not matching with 2002 list: EC

Bengal, Agency: The Election Commission has reported that nearly 26 lakh voters' names in West Bengal's current electoral rolls did not match with the voter list of 2002, an official said.

The discrepancy emerged after the state's latest voter list was compared with the those prepared across different states between 2002 and 2006 during the previous SIR exercise, he said on Wednesday evening.

According to EC sources, more than six crore enumeration forms in West Bengal had been digitised by Wednesday afternoon under the ongoing SIR process.

Once digitised, these forms are brought under the mapping procedure, where they are matched against the previous SIR records. Initial findings show that the names of around 26 lakh voters in the state cannot yet be reconciled with the data from the last SIR cycle," the official told PTI.

He said that the figure may rise further as digitisation continues.

In the electoral context, "mapping" refers to cross-verifying the latest published voter list with the SIR rolls last compiled in 2002.

This year, the mapping exercise has also included voter lists from other states, a step taken by the office of the Chief Electoral Officer to ensure a more comprehensive and accurate verification process, he said.

However, a mismatch in mapping does not mean automatic removal from the final electoral roll, the official clarified.

Cyclone 'Ditwah' soon New deep depression forms after 'rarest of rare' storm Senyar; Chennai on alert

Chennai, Agency: While the weather system in Strait of Malacca which intensified and became Cyclone 'Senyar' moved away from the Indian coast, another low-pressure area over southwest Bay of Bengal has turned into a deep depression and is expected become a cyclonic storm, with impact possible on Tamil Nadu, Puducherry and adjoining south Andhra Pradesh coast. The India Meteorological Department (IMD) said on Thursday Cyclone Senyar lay 850 km southeast of Car Nicobar - northernmost island of the Nicobar Islands - and was expected to weaken into a depression by evening.

Another weather system, however, is parallelly building over southwest Bay of Bengal and adjoining areas of southeast Sri Lanka and Equatorial Indian Ocean, according to the IMD.

Cyclone 'Ditwah' soon?

While IMD's latest X post - at around 10:15 am on Thursday, said the deep depression over southwest Bay of Bengal and adjoining Sri Lanka coast is very likely to continue to move nearly north-northwestwards and intensify further into a cyclonic storm in next 12 hours. Low-pressure systems over Indian region are classified based on the maximum sustained winds speed, with system with maximum sustained three minutes surface winds of 34 knots or more is called as cyclonic storm, according to IMD. If and when the latest depression over southwest Bay of Bengal intensifies into a cyclonic storm, it will be called Cyclone 'Ditwah', according to the roster which lists names of tropical cyclones over north Indian Ocean.
